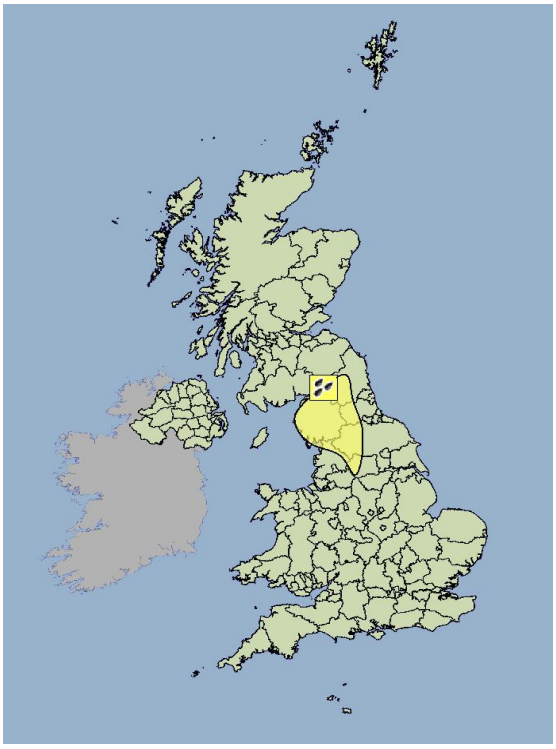
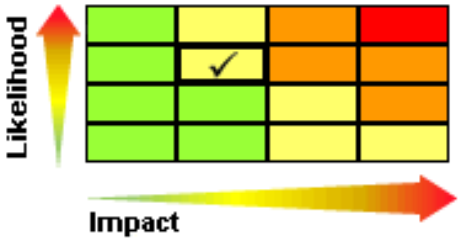
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Heavy and persistent rain is expected across parts of north and northwest England through much of Wednesday. Many places within the warning area will see 25-50 mm of rain, with around 100 mm possible over higher ground. The heavy rain is likely to clear eastwards during Wednesday evening. There remains some uncertainty with regards to the exact location of the heaviest rain and the warning will be updated as necessary.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 08:00 on Wed, 22nd Nov 2017 until 23:00 on Wed, 22nd Nov 2017

Heavy rain expected is across north and northwest England on Wednesday.

Spray and flooding on roads will probably make journey times longer. Bus and train services will also probably be affected with journey times taking longer. Flooding of a few properties is possible.
